[Docket No. FDA-2019-D-2966]

Male Breast Cancer: Developing Drugs for Treatment; Guidance for Industry; Availability

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration, HHS.

ACTION: Notice of availability.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA or Agency) is announcing the availability of a final guidance for industry entitled "Male Breast Cancer: Developing Drugs for Treatment." This guidance provides recommendations regarding the development and labeling of cancer drugs, including biological products, regulated by the Center for Drug Evaluation and Research (CDER) and the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research (CBER) for the treatment of male patients with breast cancer. Specifically, this guidance recommends the inclusion of male patients in clinical trials of breast cancer drugs and provides recommendations on clinical development when males have either not been included in clinical trials for drugs to treat breast cancer or when inclusion of males in those trials is very limited. The development of drugs for male breast cancer may provide clinical data and additional FDA-approved treatment options to improve the clinical management of breast cancer in male patients. The guidance announced in this notice finalizes the draft guidance of the same title issued on August 27, 2019.

DATES: The announcement of the guidance is published in the Federal Register on [INSERT DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE FEDERAL REGISTER].

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a guidance for industry entitled "Male Breast Cancer: Developing Drugs for Treatment." This guidance provides recommendations for sponsors regarding the development and labeling of cancer drugs and biological products regulated by CDER and CBER for the treatment of male patients with breast cancer. Males have historically been excluded from clinical trials of breast cancer drugs because breast cancer in males is rare. This has resulted in limited FDA-approved treatment options for males. Clinical management of male breast cancer is generally based on experience with and data from females with breast cancer, rather than on data from prospective, randomized clinical trials.

The final guidance recommends sponsors discuss their breast cancer drug development plan early in development with CDER or CBER, as applicable. The guidance recommends that eligibility criteria for clinical trials of breast cancer drugs allow for inclusion of males. When males have not been included or when inclusion of males is very limited in clinical trials for breast cancer drugs, the guidance includes clinical development recommendations for when no difference in efficacy or safety is anticipated between males and females based on the drug's mechanism of action and for when there is a concern for differential efficacy or safety between males and females.

This guidance finalizes the draft guidance entitled "Male Breast Cancer: Developing Drugs for Treatment" issued on August 27, 2019. FDA considered comments received on the draft guidance as the guidance was finalized. Changes from the draft to the final guidance include the addition of examples of topics for early discussion with FDA and expectations regarding nonclinical studies.

This guidance is being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the current thinking of FDA on "Male Breast Cancer: Developing Drugs for Treatment." It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.
