SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for industry entitled “Symptomatic Nonerosive Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease: Developing Drugs for Treatment.”

The draft guidance provides FDA’s current recommendations on clinical trials for drugs being developed for the treatment of sGERD in adults, including considerations for eligibility criteria, trial design features, efficacy evaluations, and safety assessments. This draft guidance details endpoint assessments and analyses of collected data to support a determination of efficacy for the indication of the treatment of sGERD, to promote consistency and interpretability in the assessment of efficacy within and across development programs. This draft guidance does not address the development of drugs for the treatment of erosive esophagitis, Barrett’s esophagus, pathological hypersecretory conditions (e.g., Zollinger-Ellison syndrome), peptic ulcer disease, or sGERD in pediatric patients.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on “Symptomatic Nonerosive Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease: Developing Drugs for Treatment.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

As we develop final guidance on this topic, FDA will consider comments on costs or cost savings the guidance may generate, relevant for Executive Order 14192.

These collections of information are subject to review by OMB under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501-3521).
