Abstract of information available:

Human ancestral remains representing, at least, one individual has been identified from an unknown archaeological site, accessioned as 2011.283. Four lots of funerary objects are present, including one lot of animal bones/bone fragments, one lot of ceramic pot sherds, one lot of charcoal, and one lot of lithics. After completing the consultation process with federally recognized Tribal Nations, this site is culturally affiliated with the Cherokee Nation, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, the Seminole Tribe of Florida (based on Southeastern iconography found on pottery sherds), and the United Keetoowah Band of Cherokee Indians. It is unknown when or by whom the individuals were removed, but the accession number indicates they were likely transferred to the Museum of the Cherokee People in 2011, where they have been housed since that time.
