The hearing will begin with an overview of China's motivations and progress to date in establishing commodities derivatives markets and examine some of the regulatory and market implications for the United States. Then, the hearing will proceed with deep dives into sectors where China has established futures contracts and examine the extent to which these contracts are impacting price discovery and commodities flows globally.

The hearing will be co-chaired by Commissioner Livia Shmavonian and Commissioner Taylor Budowich. Any interested party may file a written statement by April 16, 2026 by transmitting it to the contact above. A portion of the hearing will include a question and answer period between the Commissioners and the witnesses.
