(“NYSE Arca” or the “Exchange”) filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”) the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the Exchange. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

A. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and the Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The Exchange proposes to amend the generic listing standards for Commodity-Based Trust Shares, as set forth in Rule 8.201-E (Generic).⁴ Specifically, the Exchange proposes to (1) amend Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic) to require that at least 85% of the net asset value (“NAV”) of the Commodity-Based Trust Shares holdings consist of assets that are already allowed under the generic listing standards, and (2) amend the definition of “commodity,” as set forth in Rule 8.201-E(c)(2) (Generic), to clarify the scope of commodities covered under the generic listing standards.⁵

Background

Currently, the generic listing standards in Rule 8.201-E(c)(1)(iii) (Generic) contemplate that Commodity-Based Trust Shares may hold one or more commodities or commodity-based assets, and, in addition to such commodities or commodity-based assets, may hold securities, cash, and cash equivalents.⁶ Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic) sets forth specific eligibility requirements that the commodity, commodity-based asset, and security holdings of Commodity-Based Trust Shares must meet on an initial and, with the exception of subparagraph (d)(1)(iii) as described below, continuing basis. Specifically, each commodity or commodity that underlies a commodity-based asset held by a trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares must meet at least one of the following criteria:

⁵ The Exchange notes that this proposal is substantially the same as a proposed rule change submitted by The Nasdaq Stock Market LLC. See SR-NASDAQ-2026-032, available at <https://listingcenter.nasdaq.com/assets/rulebook/nasdaq/filings/SR-NASDAQ-2026-032.pdf>.

⁶ See Rules 8.201-E(c)(2) (defining commodity); 8.201-E(c)(3) (defining commodity-based asset); 8.201-E(c)(4) (defining cash equivalent).

- On an initial and continuing basis, the commodity trades on a market that is an Intermarket Surveillance Group (“ISG”) member, provided that the Exchange may obtain information about trading in such commodity from the ISG member (Rule 8.201-E(d)(1)(i) (Generic));
- On an initial and continuing basis, the commodity underlies a futures contract that has been made available to trade on a designated contract market for at least six months; provided that the Exchange has a comprehensive surveillance sharing agreement, whether directly or through common membership in ISG, with such designated contract market (Rule 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) (Generic)); or
- On an initial basis, an exchange-traded fund designed to provide economic exposure of no less than 40% of its net asset value to the commodity lists and trades on a national securities exchange (Rule 8.201-E(d)(1)(iii) (Generic)).

The current generic listing standards therefore require that all commodity or commodity-based asset holdings of Commodity-Based Trust Shares must meet one or more of the above eligibility criteria. These criteria are generally designed to ensure that the Exchange can obtain information regarding trading in the commodities or commodities underlying commodity-based assets held by a trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares, which would assist in monitoring trading in such shares on the Exchange and in deterring and detecting violations of Exchange rules and applicable federal securities laws, thereby making trading in the Commodity-Based Trust Shares less readily susceptible to fraud and manipulation.

In addition, Rule 8.201-E(d)(2) (Generic) sets forth the eligibility requirements for a trust’s security holdings. Specifically, if the trust holds any securities, each such security would need to meet the criteria of Rule 8.600-E (Managed Fund Shares), Commentary .01(a) and (b), or, if the security is a listed option, trade on an ISG market. In other words, the generic listing standards require that the security holdings of Commodity-Based Trust Shares be either an equity security or fixed income security, as defined in Rule 8.600-E, Commentary .01(a) and (b), respectively, and meet the listing standards thereunder, or a listed option that trades on an ISG market. The Commission previously found the generic listing standards for Managed Fund Shares to be consistent with the Act, including the requirements relating to the component equity and fixed income securities underlying Managed Fund Shares.⁷ In addition, with respect to listed options, ISG membership would help facilitate the availability of information necessary to detect and deter potential manipulation and other trading abuses, thereby making trading in the Commodity-Based Trust Shares less readily susceptible to manipulation.

Proposed Rule Change

The Exchange proposes to amend Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic) to require that at least 85% of the NAV of the holdings of Commodity-Based Trust Shares be comprised of assets that are already allowed under the generic listing standards. Specifically, as proposed, Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic) would provide that at least 85% of the NAV of the holdings of Commodity-Based Trust Shares listed under Rule 8.201-E (Generic) would consist of (i) commodities, commodity-based assets, and securities that meet the eligibility criteria set forth in subparagraphs (d)(1) and (d)(2) of the Rule and/or (ii) cash and cash equivalents. Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic) would further specify that, for purposes of calculating the 85% limitation, holdings in listed and over-the-counter (“OTC”) derivatives will be calculated as the aggregate gross notional value of the derivatives.⁸

As proposed, the remaining holdings of a trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares may consist of other assets like commodities, commodity-based assets, or securities that do not independently satisfy the eligibility criteria in Rules 8.201-E(d)(1) or (d)(2) (Generic), provided that such holdings do not exceed 15% of the NAV of the trust's holdings and the trust otherwise complies with all applicable requirements of the generic listing standards. The sponsor of the Commodity-Based Trust Shares must monitor compliance with this 85% threshold daily and must promptly notify the Exchange if the Commodity-Based Trust Shares breach this requirement.⁹

⁷ See Securities Exchange Act Release Nos. 78397 (July 22, 2016), 81 FR 49320 (July 27, 2016) (SR-NYSEARCA-2015-110) (approving NYSE Arca’s generic listing standards for Managed Fund Shares); 78396 (July 22, 2016), 81 FR 49698 (July 28, 2016) (SR-BATS2015-100) (approving BZX’s generic listing standards for Managed Fund Shares); 78918 (September 23, 2016), 81 FR 67033 (September 29, 2016) (SR-NASDAQ-2016-104) (approving Nasdaq’s generic listing standards for Managed Fund Shares).

The following examples illustrate the application of the 85/15 proposal:

- A trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares holds $95 million in market value of bitcoin, ether, Solana, and XRP, each of which currently qualify as eligible commodities under Rules 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) and (iii) (Generic) (i.e., each commodity underlies a futures contract that has been trading on an ISG market for at least 6 months and, for each commodity, there is an ETF that provides at least 40% economic exposure to the commodity). The trust also holds $5 million in market value in several digital asset commodities that do not currently qualify as eligible commodities under the generic listing standards, for total holdings of $100 million. Because at least 95% of the trust's NAV ($95 million / $100 million = 95%) meets the eligibility criteria under Rules 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) and (iii) (Generic), the Commodity-Based Trust Shares exceed the 85% threshold and would satisfy the generic listing standards, as proposed.
- A trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares holds gold and gold futures contracts. The trust's assets currently qualify as an eligible commodity or commodity-based asset under Rule 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) (Generic) because gold underlies futures contracts that have been trading on an ISG market for at least six months. The gold held by the trust has a market value of $80 million, and the trust holds gold futures contracts with a gross notional value of $40 million,¹⁰ for total holdings of $120 million. Because 100% of the trust's NAV meets the eligibility criteria under Rule 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) (Generic), the Commodity-Based Trust Shares exceed the 85% threshold and would satisfy the generic listing standards, as proposed.

- A trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares holds bitcoin and OTC call options on a bitcoin ETF. Bitcoin currently qualifies as an eligible commodity under Rules 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) and (iii) (Generic) (i.e., bitcoin underlies a futures contract that has been trading on an ISG market for at least 6 months, and there is an ETF that provides at least 40% economic exposure to bitcoin). The OTC call options on a bitcoin ETF do not meet the generic listing standards because these options are traded OTC rather than on an ISG market. The bitcoin held by the trust has a market value of $100 million, and the trust's OTC call options on a bitcoin ETF have a gross notional value of $40 million,¹¹ for total holdings of $140 million. Because only the bitcoin holdings of $100 million, representing approximately 71% of the trust's NAV ($$100 \text{ million} / $140 \text{ million} = 71.42\%$) meet the eligibility criteria under Rules 8.201-E(d)(1)(ii) and (iii) (Generic), the Commodity-Based Trust Shares do not meet the required 85% threshold and would not satisfy the generic listing standards, as proposed.

The Exchange notes that the proposed 85% threshold for Commodity-Based Trust Shares holdings is consistent with thresholds recently approved by the Commission for similar commodity-based ETPs.¹² Specifically, the Commission approved the listing and trading of commodity-based ETPs holding a diversified portfolio of underlying commodities that tracked transparent, rules-based indices. There, the Commission found that the requirement that the trusts hold at least 85% of their investments in assets approved by the Commission to underlie an ETP as primary investments would enable adequate surveillance of the shares on the Exchange and found that the Exchange’s rules were designed to prevent fraud and manipulation.¹³ Although the ETPs in the Grayscale Order and Bitwise Order were listed under Rule 8.500-E for Trust Units, the Exchange believes that the policy rationale underlying the 85% threshold applies equally to Commodity-Based Trust Shares listed under Rule 8.201-E (Generic). Here, the Exchange proposes to require that at least 85% of the NAV of a trust’s holdings be composed of assets that already meet the eligibility criteria under the generic listing standards (i.e., commodities, commodity-based assets, and securities that meet the eligibility criteria in Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic), as well as cash and cash equivalents). These eligibility criteria are designed to assist the Exchange in monitoring trading in such shares on the Exchange, thereby mitigating risks related to fraud and manipulation. The Exchange therefore believes that its proposal similarly strikes an appropriate balance between ensuring that the primary exposure of the ETP is to assets meeting established eligibility standards approved by the Commission and allowing limited exposure to additional assets that enhance diversification and flexibility without undermining market integrity or investor protection.

The Exchange also proposes to amend the definition of “commodity” in Rule 8.201-E(c)(2)

(Generic) by excluding non-fungible assets and collectibles from its scope. This proposed change is intended to exclude those assets from the definition of eligible commodities under the generic listing standards but would not preclude the Exchange from submitting a separate rule change proposing the listing and trading of Commodity-Based Trust Shares that include such assets if it determines to do so. The Exchange notes that generic listing standards are generally intended to apply to products that were known and contemplated at the time of adoption; they are not intended to apply to novel products or materially distinct structures that were not considered when the standards were adopted. With respect to the generic listing standards for Commodity-Based Trust Shares, the commodities that were known and contemplated at the time of adoption included precious metals and digital asset commodities, but not non-fungible assets or collectibles. Accordingly, the Exchange believes it is appropriate to exclude such assets from the definition of “commodity” for purposes of the generic listing standards.

2. Statutory Basis

The proposed rule change is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,¹⁴ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5),¹⁵ in particular, because it is designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in facilitating transactions in securities, to remove impediments to, and perfect the mechanism of, a free and open market and a national market system and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest.

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is designed to perfect the mechanism of a free an open market and a national market system and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest because it would facilitate the listing and trading of additional Commodity-Based Trust Shares, which would enhance competition among market participants, to the benefit of investors and the marketplace. As noted above, the Exchange proposes to require that at least 85% of the NAV of a trust's holdings be composed of assets that already meet the eligibility criteria under the generic listing standards (i.e., commodities, commodity-based assets, and securities that meet the eligibility criteria in Rule 8.201-E(d) (Generic), as well as cash and cash equivalents). By requiring that the primary exposure of generically listed Commodity-Based Trust Shares be in assets that meet the established eligibility criteria under Rule 8.201-E (Generic), the Exchange believes that the proposed rule change would provide for flexibility in product innovation while maintaining robust investor protections. As discussed above, the current eligibility criteria are generally designed to ensure that the Exchange can obtain information regarding trading in the assets held by a trust issuing Commodity-Based Trust Shares to assist in monitoring the trading in such shares on the Exchange and in deterring and detecting violations of Exchange rules and applicable federal securities laws, thereby making Commodity-Based Trust Shares less readily susceptible to fraud and manipulation.

The Exchange also believes that the proposed change to exclude non-fungible assets and collectibles from the definition of "commodity" would perfect the mechanism of a free an open market and a national market system and, in general, protect investors and the public interest. As noted above, these assets were not contemplated for inclusion in the universe of eligible commodities at the time the generic listing standards were adopted, and, in general, generic listing standards are not intended to cover novel products that were not considered when such standards were adopted. Accordingly, while the Exchange proposes to exclude such assets from the definition of "commodity" set forth in Rule 8.201-E(c)(2) (Generic), this proposed change is not intended to preclude the Exchange from submitting a separate proposed rule change to list and trade Commodity-Based Trust Shares that include such assets if it determines to do so.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. Instead, the Exchange believes that the proposed rule change would facilitate the listing and trading of additional types of Commodity-Based Trust Shares pursuant to generic listing standards, provided that the applicable requirements are satisfied. The proposed rule change is designed to encourage product innovation and efficient listing processes, which would enhance competition among issuers and listing venues, to the benefit of investors and the marketplace.
