SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: PHMSA is correcting the proposed rule titled “Pipeline Safety Adjustment to OPID Notifications for Construction” that published in the Federal Register on April 24, 2026.¹ The first paragraph in section I (General Discussion) of the proposed rule correctly described PHMSA’s intention to increase existing 49 CFR 191.22(c) monetary thresholds for operator notifications to PHMSA regarding certain construction activity on gas pipeline facilities to account for inflation since the introduction of those thresholds. That paragraph explained that PHMSA was proposing to increase the monetary threshold at § 191.22(c)(1)(i) for notification of replacement or modification of any existing gas pipeline facility from the current minimum of $10 million to $20 million, as well to increase the monetary threshold at § 191.22(c)(1)(iv) for certain maintenance tasks on underground natural gas storage facilities from the current $200,000 minimum to $300,000.² However, the proposed rule elsewhere (specifically, in section II.J (Paperwork Reduction Act) and the amendatory regulatory text for § 191.22(c)(1)(i) and (iv)) erroneously identified lower monetary thresholds of $15 million and $250,000, respectively.
